China In My Eyes

Wang, Jing

January 19—March 6, 2017
Northern Virginia Community College
Alexandria Campus, Bisdorf Building Library

The genesis for the China In My Eyes photography exhibition was a dream to expand understanding about China. First exhibited in 2013 at George Mason University, the exhibit was also showcased at Northern Virginia Community College Annandale campus and the Osher Lifelong Learning Institutes in Fairfax and Loudon counties. It offers a window into the world of China today, encouraging viewers to explore and imagine.

The exhibit includes scenes from the everyday life of ordinary Chinese citizens which should resonate with people everywhere. The images, dating from 1983 to the present, capture a wide range of emotions and experiences from many different regions of China. The photographers themselves represent a diverse group, ranging from high school students to retired professionals, Mason faculty and staff to local residents, college students from the U.S. and abroad, and amateur photographers to professionals. We hope their images will stimulate your interest to learn more about China today.
